Statements of Purpose:

A. Strategic Direction

These areas were obtained primarily for the purpose of detecting wildfires. Fire detection, however, is no longer the principal purposes of these areas. The Rose Hill Tower is likely eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places and, therefore, has historical and cultural value.

- Doniphan Towersite is still used regularly for fire detection. Its primary uses have become the work center for the Ripley/Oregon County work team, equipment storage for Protection Division, and as a repeater site.
- Rose Hill Tower Site is no longer used for fire detection. Its primary purpose is now as a radio repeater site.
- Thomasville Tower Site is used for fire detection sporadically. The primary purpose has become the management of the forest resource.
- Hunter Tower Site is still used primarily for fire detection. Other uses are forest management, a radio repeater site and an emergency siren.

B. Desired Future Condition

Maintain structural integrity of the towers and other facilities to ensure safety of Missouri Department of Conservation (the Department) personnel and the public. Manage surrounding forests to ensure healthy, sustainable, forest resources and to protect groundwater and surface water quality.

Public Input Summary:

The draft Eminence District Towersites Area Management Plan was available for a public comment period February 1–28, 2015. The Missouri Department of Conservation received comments from one respondent (Appendix 9). The Eminence District Towersites Area Planning Team carefully reviewed and considered these ideas as they finalized this document. A brief summary of public input themes, including how they were incorporated or why they were not, can be found below. Rather than respond to each individual comment, comments are grouped into general themes and are addressed collectively.

Department responses to themes and issues identified through Eminence District Towersites public comment period

Appreciates the Department maintaining fire towers and protecting them from vandalism.

The planning team, and work teams responsible for them, appreciates the recognition of efforts to maintain these sites. The maintenance will continue as established in Area Maintenance guidelines. There are no plans to dispose of any of these sites, so the historical significance will be preserved. Any future action to dispose or alter the sites will first have to go through a process, including a cultural resource review, to insure the historical significance is considered before actions are taken.

Thanks so much for continuing to maintain these tower sites. These are important historical landmarks and pieces of history to teach not only about fire prevention (and its history) but also the goals of conservation here in our great state. I'm happy to see in the report that these sites are to be continued to be maintained and also steps taken to protect them from vandalism. Keep up the good work and thanks again for maintaining these important pieces of history and conservation!
